

Our clients

We treat each client
with the same
high standards of personal service

The philosophy of our working approach is to spend considerable time and care understanding the specific problems, needs, goals and ambitions of each new client. Then, based on our extensive knowledge of business in general and a close working relationship with key individuals within the client company, we are able to offer a complete package of high-level services.

At Crane & Partners, as this brochure demonstrates, we are equally at home advising sole traders and public limited companies, people with modest sums to take care of and high net worth individuals. The reason for this is straightforward: by treating each client with the same high standards of personal service, we provide solutions to all types of accountancy problems. We also believe in responding to needs rather than offering standard advice. Finally, we have helped many smaller companies grow into larger ones through the quality and continuity of our service. Among our substantial list of personal tax clients we have a number of Lloyd's underwriters. Partnerships are also well represented, particularly in the medical, legal and dental professions. Perhaps the bulk of our business, though, is from family or director-controlled businesses. This is certainly a traditional area of our expertise, and one where we have assisted a great many clients.

Our list of clients includes representatives from almost every type of industry: from agriculture, mining, manufacturing, construction, transport and communication, to commercial, financial, management and professional services. Geographically, the majority of our clients are based in the South East of England, but also with a good proportion spread nationwide.
